Data Discovery

Use filters to make very complex queries and mine complex data very easily.

55.000 results are disambiguated in key canonical types.

You can see how data is aggregated and track from which sources data comes.

Save and track search strategies. Modify, delete or continue on earlier steps.

Call to Action for Open Data

The screenshot shows the eagle-i website interface. At the top, there is a search bar with the text "Search for resources across the eagle-i Network" and a "Go" button. Below the search bar is a navigation menu with links for "ABOUT", "GET INVOLVED", "NEWS + EVENTS", "FAQ", "CONTACT US", and "HELP". A banner below the menu reads "eagle-i search may not work correctly in Mozilla Firefox 41.0.8. Earlier versions of Firefox and other browsers are unaffected. The eagle-i team will address this issue in our next software release, slated for early November 2016." The main content area is titled "Participating Institutions" and includes a paragraph: "The eagle-i Network consists of a diverse group of academic and not-for-profit institutions that have shared information about their local resources in eagle-i's search tools." Below this is a link: "Interested in becoming a participating institution? Contact Us." The page features a large map of the United States with blue dots indicating participating institutions. To the left of the map is a list of frequently asked questions under four categories: "GENERAL INFORMATION", "USING EAGLE-I SEARCH TOOLS", "ADOPTING EAGLE-I AT YOUR INSTITUTION", and "SPECIFICATIONS AND TECHNICAL INFORMATION". The eagle-i logo is visible in the bottom left corner of the page.
